

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An energy recovering apparatus and method uses an inductor to recover an energy stored in a display capacitance. The recovered energy is reusable for driving a display device, preferably a plasma display. The energy recovery can be based on LC resource frequency or not based on such frequency.